

BUNNY IN THE BURROW

What you need:	A large lightweight blanket or cloth
Music requirements:	None
Age suitability:	3+

Ask all the children to lie on the floor with plenty of space between them. Ask them to close their eyes tightly and tell them that all the bunnies are in their burrows under the ground.

Gently put the cloth over one of the children, then tell all the other children it's time to wake up and open their eyes. The children all gather around the child who is covered up and the other children try to guess who it is.

This game works well when you have lots of children.

Make sure your cloth is light and big enough to cover the child including the shoes. Before starting the game tell the children what you are going to do and that you will be covering them up so they don't get scared. Before you cover the chosen child it is a good idea to tap them gently on the shoulder so that they don't get a fright. Make sure you tell all the children not to make a sound if they are the one covered up and to lie very still.
