

SPACE STATIONS

What you need: Silver circles cut from cardboard in the shape of planets or space stations

Music requirements: Yes

Age suitability: 3+

Another version of musical chairs.

You place a number of planets or space stations around the room and each child sits on a planet or space station. When the music starts each child moves around like they are floating in space. You then periodically stop the music. When the music stops each child has to land onto a planet or a space station. After each round you remove one planet or space station. The child who doesn't get a planet or a space station has to sit out.

The last child in is the winner.

If you can't find silver cardboard you can cover any colour cardboard with alfoil.
